

National Player Development Manager

- Iconic New Zealand sporting organisation
- National Leadership role
- Vibrant and fast paced environment

Netball New Zealand (NNZ), netball's national sporting organisation, has the responsibility for leading the development of the sport throughout New Zealand. Netball has a proud tradition of widespread participation and sporting excellence from grassroots Netball through to the Silver Ferns.

Through its role of developing and managing national programmes for participation, coaches, umpires and officials, NNZ aims for Netball to continue to be the first sport of choice for New Zealanders. Netball New Zealand works hard to support Netball's five zones and 83 Netball Centres who deliver the game to its 145,000 affiliated members and 350,000 plus people who participate in the game annually across New Zealand.

Reporting to the Head of High Performance, the primary purpose of this role is to provide national leadership of all High Performance Athlete Development (HPAD) including benchmarks, resources and delivery of best practice advice and guidance to the NNZ Zones. You will oversee the best possible athlete support structures and delivery across all NNZ national programmes below the Silver Ferns, as well as working with Zone staff to ensure best practise in the development and implementation of zone performance programmes directly aligned with the national pathways.

Applicants must have a proven track record of leading an athlete development programme at national level or similar as part of a high performance team, and hold a relevant Sports Science, sports management and/ or coaching practice degree, preferably to post-graduate level. Strong stakeholder management and interpersonal skills that contribute towards building sustainable relationships, generating mutual trust and respect are essential.
